Kissing only jest, Mason explains

By BOBBY BOWMAN

The annual Kissing Contest at UC featured the usual mix of love, leg room, and other leg room.

The event was described by participants as a way to relieve stress during the semester.

The prize for the winner was a kiss from each of the four judges: the Spectrum staff, the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Engineering, and the College of Business.

The contest was open to all students, and the winner was announced during the afternoon session of the Kissing Contest.

The judges were selected based on their willingness to participate and their ability to keep the contest running smoothly.

The event was well attended, with a large crowd gathered to see who would win the coveted prize.

The winner was announced and the winner was awarded a prize at the end of the contest.

The Kissing Contest has been a popular event at UC for many years, and it is always a great way to relieve stress and have some fun.

The winning kiss was described as sweet and sincere, and it was certainly a memorable moment for those who were there.
