Management Leadership for Tomorrow (MLT) is a nonprofit organization based out of the Washington, D.C. area that equips high achieving African Americans, Latinos and Native Americans with the skills, coaching and connections they need to lead organizations and communities worldwide. They propel rising leaders at all stages: from college to a first job, from B-School to the C-Suite. MLT collaborates with 100+ of the best organizations and employers in the world to help diversify their leadership pipelines. For example, Google, Unilever, McKinsey and LinkedIn, to name a few. There is a healthy pipeline between Business Fellows and Management Leadership for Tomorrow; and we are grateful for the professional development and career opportunities afforded to our students.

Over the years, to name a few:

1. Janelle Wichmann
2. Rosie Anja Macedo
3. Sonya Sorrells
4. Maryam Adewumi
5. Jada Fountain
6. Gika Okonji
7. Brian Starks
8. Mical Daniel
9. Kamree Maull
10. Mitchell Phelps
11. Alexis Artis
12. Aaron Jones
13. Leola Lynch
14. Ayanna Patterson
15. Serene Smith
16. Angela Brown; and
17. Rod Griffin

Have flourished from the MLT Career Prep program; and we would like to give credit where credit is due. MLT has given Business Fellows greater access to premier employers and heightened the exposure quotient for students exponentially.