It is such an important discussion as many teens struggle in these complicated times with bullying, perfectionism, panic, and sometimes hopelessness. It is encouraging to know that our schools, youth serving agencies, and other caring adults are prepared to help. - Honerable Heather Mollo

Students are at that place where they’re at a crossroad, and that was the place where I really started to struggle and battle with myself. So if I can tell my story and try to encourage them to turn right when I turned left, I’ll do it all day long.

- Nathan Harmon, keynote speaker
