9:15 am Status Report on U.S. Department of the Interior Native Utilization Agreement

Admiral (Ret.) Tom Barrett, President, Alyeska Pipeline Service Company

The settlement of Alaska Native land claims cleared title to allow the construction of the Transalaska Pipeline and development of the largest oil discovery in North America – Prudhoe Bay. The Alaska Native Utilization Agreement requires 20% Native Hire on the Pipeline and provides a significant source of income for Alaska Natives. How is it working today? What innovative new ideas are surfacing which need to be explored?

9:30 am Special Guest Speaker

Jacqueline Bisille, Policy Advisor, U.S. Senate Committee on Indian Affairs

SECTION: Alaska Natives' Special Relationship with the Land, Fish and Waters: Protecting and Advancing Traditional Subsistence Hunting and Fishing Laws

Panelists will provide a legal overview of our subsistence rights, challenges to these rights, and how we are responding. They will discuss the Sturgeon v. Frost case pending before the U.S. Supreme Court. Opportunities for innovative and new thinking on protecting our way of life will also be discussed. Our collective opinion remains: no net loss of legal rights. But is there an opportunity to explore new solutions?

11:00 am Co-Designing Future Realities Through Emerging Technologies and Traditional Values

Gloria O’Neill, President & CEO, Cook Inlet Tribal Council

Alaska Native people have been innovating for 10,000 years. Now, in a rapidly changing world with emerging technologies, we have a responsibility to our young people and our community to ensure we have the tools, resources, and voice to carry our people forward into the Age of Digitalization.

As the first people of Alaska, members of the Native community have the history, adaptability, and resilience to embrace technology and integrate with traditional values. Together, we can create and lead a movement for a collectively designed future through modern tools and indigenous knowledge to further our commitment of self-determination and sustainable, interdependent communities for generations to come.
