

John Waddell

Scottish Liberal Democrat candidate
West Aberdeenshire & Kincardine

Dear Andrew,

I have known you for a long time always known you to be a reasonable person even when we have disagreed politically.

That is why I am writing to you now to ask if you agree with Jacob Rees Mogg's comments regarding the Grenfell disaster.

Your colleague Jacob Rees Mogg's comments that people should ignore the professional advice of fire fighters and describing this as "common sense" is the worst type of entitlement arrogance, an insult to the fire services who worked tirelessly to rescue the victims in the fire and most of all is a horrible slur against the 72 people who died in Grenfell tower due to the fire.

Residents of West Aberdeenshire and Kincardine who we both seek to represent will seriously consider whether the Conservatives really represent their views and if they want their representative to sit in the same benches as the likes of politicians like Rees-Mogg.

Mr Rees Mogg has lost what little credibility he had and is clearly out of touch with the emergency services and the public. I hope that you agree and join me in condemning these comments and calling for his resignation.

Best regards,

John Waddell
