I. BACKGROUND

Established in 2012, the Caribbean Biodiversity Fund (CBF) is the realization of a bold vision to create reliable, long-term funding for conservation and sustainable development in the Caribbean region. The CBF supports and incentivizes Caribbean countries and territories to meet the goals of the Caribbean Challenge Initiative (CCI) and other international and regional commitments.

The CBF is an umbrella fund with permanent and non-permanent funding.

A total of US$42 million of initial commitments have been made to capitalize a permanent endowment that forms the core of the CBF’s funding structure and its Conservation Program. Donors to date include the Government of Germany through the German Development Bank (KfW), the Global Environment Facility (GEF) — through the World Bank and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) — and The Nature Conservancy. To implement activities under the CBF Conservation Program which are financed through the endowment the CBF partners with a National Conservation Trust Fund which receive annual payments from the CBF to lead the grant-making programs at the national level.
In addition to its endowment, the CBF was created with a flexible structure to manage sinking funds; revolving funds and project grant funding.

In partnership with the German Government through KfW, the CBF has recently established a 26.5 million USD fund for its Ecosystem-based Adaptation Facility (EbA Facility). The EbA Facility will work as a sinking fund over a period of five years to finance climate change adaptation measures that incorporate biodiversity conservation and ecosystems management as part of adaptation strategies. The Facility’s activities will contribute to help people and economies adapt to the adverse impacts of climate change, while also ensuring the resilience of ecosystems.

To give the needed attention to the EbA Facility, an EbA Committee will be created in short. The EbA Committee members are expected to meet at least four times a year, of which at least one should be a physical meeting. The EbA Committee will have a mandate by the Board of Directors that will set the framework of its role and responsibilities. This mandate will be defined in an EbA Committee Charter to be developed. The EbA Committee will report – with support of the EbA Manager – to the Board on progress of the EbA Facility.
