CALL FOR PAPERS

The University of Toronto Economic Review is currently accepting submissions for its 2018 edition. We are looking for papers that fall into one of the following two categories:

Short Paper: A paper that attempts to make subject matters of academic economics more accessible to the general interest population.

Long Paper: A rigorous paper presenting a theoretical or empirical result or a policy evaluation. The paper must present an original contribution and appeal to broad economic interest.

Submissions are not restricted to any courses or traditional fields of economics and are open to all undergrads. If you have any questions regarding the appropriateness of a submission, do not hesitate to contact us for clarification. Submissions should be sent as a single PDF to uter@esauoft.ca.

Please include in the email your name, program, institution, year of study, and the letter grade your paper received. The deadline for submission is January 15, 2018 at 11:59 PM.