The family of Sayed Sadeq Ali (44 years), sentenced to life in prison, complained that officials at Jau Prison have delayed taking him to a specialist doctor to treat his illnesses.

When his wife visited him last Thursday, he complained that officials are delaying taking him to a specialist. He has been suffering from pain in his ear since his arrest in May 2013. She added that the prison's doctor said after examining him that he needs surgeries for hemorrhoids and a hernia. However, the prison administration is stalling in taking him to the specialist.

She explained that every detainee has the right to adequate medical care based on local law. Officials at the prison should meet his needs for urgent medical treatment quickly and without delay. Sayed Sadeq Ali is a father of five and was sentenced to life in prison in a terrorist cell case.
